The
nettl
Christmas
CAROL

Dreaming beyond misted window, snow starts to fall
Reminiscing his first job, when he was ever so small

Mounting creaky delivery bike, bell a jingling
Breath frozen, little icy fingers a tingling

Up through the kissing gate, high on the hill
Pedalling and puffing in deep winter chill

Last drop for Ma Parker, third time this week
Door opens, slams, why doesn't she ever speak?

Head droops low, lip quivers in fading light
He grasps a card, handwritten late last night

She hears letterbox swing, watches him leave
Opens the envelope, astonished to receive

It's a heart-felt thanks for custom all year
"Oh...", deep remorse, eye forming a tear

To the eve of Christmas our tale now goes
He's climbing the hill, icicles biting his nose

But what's this at Ma Parker's, dusted in snow?
A parcel, his name tagged, he fumbles the bow

Frigid digits carefully peel back the wrap
A gift from her! Gloves, scarf and cap...

"Yikes!" vibrating phone abruptly breaks his gaze
Rudely transported back to present days

But that momentary flashback reminds him hence

Saying "thank you" just makes business sense

"Oh, hello Mrs Parker!" a smile forms as he says
"How's my very best customer doing today?"

DO PEOPLE STILL SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS?

Yeh, we get asked that a lot.

Of course they do.

Granted, you probably got fewer Christmas Cards last year than in 1999.

But think about one you did get.

Did you open it and think

"They shouldn't have bothered?"

Did you baubles.

You thought "ah, cute"

Or "ha! that made me smile"

or "oh yeh, I was meaning to get back in touch with them."

They say some things are best left unsaid.

But "thank you" isn't one of them.

SELL ONLINE

£3 of every £10 is now spent online. Are you ready to receive your share of online sales? Selling through your own website offers a seamless customer journey from site visit to sale. Take control of your online shop by upgrading your existing website or launching a new e-commerce website with the help of your local Nettl studio. It might cost less than you expect to get started.

GET CLICKS

Potential customers and clients are searching online for your products and services right now. The question is, will they end up on your website? Paid search, or pay-per-click advertising (PPC) is the quickest way to add traffic to your website and put your business in front of potential customers. Like now. Today.

CLICK & COLLECT

Reduce unnecessary waiting times with 'Click & Collect'. Have customers browse from the comfort of their couch, pay online and pick up from your collection point. It's what modern customers have come to expect. Set rules like how many orders you can handle at a time and lock slots when you're too busy. Sync your online store with your physical stock levels.

ADD BOOKINGS

With our booking websites you can take a break from the admin and focus on doing what you do best. With automated bookings that sync with your calendar, you can easily optimise availability, booking times and staff members. Got an existing booking or reservation system you use for telephone or walk-ins? Talk to us about integrating it with your website.
